

Disorderly Lives: The Writers Notebook: Short Story Collection No. 1

A collection of short stories of varied genre, from twelve up and coming authors who have each won the monthly short story contest held by The Writers Notebook. These winning stories explore the diverse (and often dark) nature of human emotions and various forms of society. From the need for human affection no matter the cost, to survival in a dystopian future. Contributing authors: Andrew Newall, Misty Mikes, Ann Case, Katherine Hackett, Brian Cofflin, SM Cadman, Meghashri Dalvi, Vaun Murphrey, Nicola A. Ferguson, Anita Ponton, Peter Collins, Giovanni Cirillo, Sandra Rose Review: A multi-authored anthology named Disorderly Lives may suggest a chaotic read, this is anything but. Each story is faithful to its respective theme yet the collection manages to create a strong singular tone of plot twists and turns. Reading this collection felt like an enjoyable Sunday drive: The weather may have changed from sunny to broody and back again, the villages driven through may be completely different, but ultimately you were driving down one single road, full of sharp bends and blind spots. I highly recommend you pull on those driving gloves and take this book for a spin! A.Crocker
