

DEAD FLOWERS ON HER GRAVE: A Political Thriller

Bonfire night celebrations on the village green in Hascombe are going with a bang, until the guy catches alight and is found to contain the body of Diana Sanderson. Jack Cade is the investigative reporter on a national Sunday tabloid working on a story about a rogue IRA group who are in England with the alleged intention of disrupting the Ulster peace process by an act of terrorism. But when the story from Hascombe comes into the newsroom he abandons the IRA story and goes to Lancashire in search of this more human story. He uncovers a background of rural witchcraft and ritual, which the church and a superstitious Irishman take very seriously but the police warn Jack Cade off the case.
