This remarkable collaboration had its origins when John Kinsella and Alan Jenkins, two very different poets who had long admired and enjoyed each others work, discovered by chance that the new poems they were working on shared a preoccupation with the sea. Marine brings together those poems and others written since, all dealing with the sea in its many moods and weathers, with peoples relationship to and exploitation of their marine environment, from the Indian Ocean to the shores of the Atlantic. The two poets highly distinctive voices, while drawing on a dazzling variety of forms and sources, complement each other in a powerful counterpoint.
