

MOSAIC 2010

Mosaic 2010 is a collection of short fiction by members of the Brooksville Writers Group. There is something in MOSAIC for every taste, including some interesting retellings of ancient tales and topics dealing with current events, science fiction and ghost stories. Some of the stories are delightfully charming and even suitable for children, while others are adult in theme. A couple of the stories, for example, Beckers Winter Visitor are parts of a longer work. Other members are working on full-length novels. Jill Svoboda, who has won a number of writing awards, has a manuscript that will probably become a trilogy called The Powers of Surt; Don Kafriksen has already written a couple of novels including the intriguing adventure, White Emeralds. Established in 1998, The Brooksville Writers Group includes members who reside in Hernando, Sumter and Citrus County, as well as some from farther afield. One member lives in Boston and another in Vermont. Although he was one of the first members of the Writers Group, no one is sure where Mark Maddy lives .. someone said southern California, but were not sure anymore. We are flexible in our membership, and enjoy the company and input of writers no matter where they are found.
