Traveling abroad, Sabrina's grand adventure is about to change. Needing to go home and rectify the wrongs that are hovering ever constant around her, she finds herself thrust into a whole new set of truths she must confront. What if she had chosen differently? What if she had followed her parents' guidance? Acceptance, freedom, being a worldly woman, had all seemed so important. Now, however, her path will lead her into the unknown. On her own, she must confront her fears head-on. When she meets dream man, she dares to hope, but life has its own plan. Is she strong enough for what destiny has in store for her? What will the cost be this time?/
