Guttenberg was back in his office having organized his notes on the three cases, trying to place them all in some kind of logical order. He started with the victims, Liz Oakes who was his number one. Liz was a 19-year-old college student majoring in political science. She supplemented her income by being a cashier at the supermarket. She was well-liked, outgoing, friendly, and extremely intelligent. She was 5 foot 2 in height, and her weight was around 108 pounds. She had by all accounts beautiful blue eyes; she also was a size 4. Her hair was long and platinum blonde, although she was a natural brunette. She turned up missing on a Sunday morning on her way to work; her car was found in the parking lot where she worked. But none of her fellow employees had remembered seeing her at all that day. Her body was discovered nude in the woods approximately 10 miles from the shopping centre where she worked, three weeks after she had been kidnapped.
