

Planet of the Damned

Before becoming an editor and writer, Harrison started in the science fiction field as an illustrator, notably with EC Comics two science fiction comic book series, Weird Fantasy and Weird Science. In these and other comic book stories, he most often worked with Wally Wood. Wood usually inked over Harrison's layouts, and the two freelanced for several publishers and genres, including westerns and horror comics.

72 HOURS IN HELL Dis was a harsh, inhospitable, dangerous place and the Magter made it worse. They might have been human once -- but they were something else now. The Magter had only one desire -- Kill! Kill everything, themselves, their planet, the universe if they could -- Brion Brandt was sent in at the eleventh hour. His mission was to save Dis, but it looked as though he was going to preside over its annihilation.
