

The Oxford Book of Australian Ghost Stories

This anthology of Australian ghost stories--from the 1850s to the present day--draws together a neglected but striking genre of fiction which works to remind those who recently settled the country how unsettled it actually is. Australia becomes the down underworld, a place where the dead continue to make their presence felt. The anthology includes the works of many well-known Australian writers, such as Dal Stevens, Lucy Sussex, Barbara Baynton, and Marcus Clarke.
