

The Shadow on the House

A young man falls in love, and in so doing suddenly finds his world turned upside-down?—in the most terrifying way. The events that come to pass will engage the reader to the very end. First published in 1934, The Shadow on the House was the first novel by the mysterious Mark Hansom, who went on to write some of the darkest, and rarest supernatural thrillers in the genre. This is the third book under the Dancing Tuatara imprint to be published by Ramble House, and includes an introduction by John Pelan.
