

Will to Kill

A cozy mystery thriller A homicidal maniac is on the loose eliminating elders, and no one knows this phantom-of-evil exists. An early morning knock on a motel door is often a harbinger of bad news. After nine futile years of playing professional baseball, Dean the Dream Mason learns his career has come to an end. Worse yet, Deans only living relative was found dead in a nursing home, and the inheritance he is due, which is seven times greater than current President Dwight D. Eisenhowers annual salary, is no longer his. But Deans troubles only worsen. If he cant track down the person who murdered his aunt, he will lose his last remaining asset: his life. Fast paced and engaging, Will to Kill kept me reading and turning pages until way after midnight. I just had to find out how the heck the heroes would prevail. Laurel Anne Hill, Award-winning author of Heroes Arise and over 25 published short stories Will to Kill is a page-turner cozy mystery crafted with humorous word play and cliff hanger chapter endings. Elizabeth Tuck, Editor About the Author: Robert Davis graduated from San Jose State University with a degree in recreation. His career as Belmonts Recreation Superintendent somehow evolved into becoming president of an advertising agency. He served for three years as treasurer of the California Writers Club (Peninsula Branch) and Jack London Writers Conference.
